ABOUT EXPO

Rooftop Solar Expo 2026 is a platform to provide business opportunity to Solar Panel Manufacturers, Importers, Traders, Solar products and Allied Industry professional , Technology and Installation systems to showcase latest technology and equipment at this platform in India the event will attract thousands of visitors from the industry and urban -rural residents which will help to grow the business fastly and also brand building within the general public.

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

The Indian rooftop solar market is estimated to be at 18,845 MW by the end of 2026. It is projected to reach 41,778 MW by 2028, registering a CAGR of over 22.99% during the forecast period. Over the long term, factors such as increasing demand in the commercial and industrial sectors and government emphasis on renewable energy integration are expected to be significant drivers for the market. On the other hand, slow-paced installation of rooftop projects may likely restrain the growth of the Indian rooftop solar market over the coming years. Nevertheless, the untapped solar potential and focus on increasing decentralization would enable residential and industrial customers to rely less on central grids, which is seen as an opportunity during the forecast period. Due to the rise of industrial activity in India, industry power demand may increase. As a result, rooftop solar installations would be robust options for enterprises to become self-reliant, which is expected to expand the rooftop solar market in India. States such as Gujarat, Haryana, Rajasthan, Uttar Pradesh and Maharashtra exhibit attractiveness for rooftop solar installations as they offer feasible policies for net metering and easy subsidy-related processes. This facilitates rooftop solar installation by consumers of the Industrial segment in a more accessible manner.
